Gary knew that he needed to find a vantage – a place which would give him a good view of the entire rainforest. Without that, a tiny frog like him would never be able to find them. But where could he go? He was surrounded by acres of thick, dense vegetation. No cliffs. No waterfalls. Suddenly, he had an idea. He stretched out his toes as wide as they would go and jumped towards the nearest tree trunk. Clinging on, he climbed higher and higher until he finally reached the canopy. He stood atop the wide-reaching fronds, looking towards the horizon in search of two tiny, blue specks, which looked just like him. Just as he had given up hope, an auburn orangutan swung by, carrying two sticky, blue lumps on her back...
