First World War exhibition comes to Bosworth

Enjoy a spectacular display about the Royal Warwickshire Regiment and the Somme battlefields

Come along to our First World War exhibition to see paintings and poetry of the First World War by local artist Maureen Marlowe.

West Midlands Fire Service Heritage Group and Birmingham Firemen in the first World War will also be present and you’ll have an opportunity to visit the trenches and handle original objects from the Somme battlefields. If you have any relatives who served in the First World War, our research table could help you find out more about the role they played. We’d love to see any items you have from the First World War too!

For more information, call 0121 770 8570