Dear Parents and Carers,

It’s the end of another week, with some of our children back at school, but most still working from home.

This week, the government has announced new guidance for schools on how we should go about opening safely for our pupils in the autumn term. We look forward to welcoming you back in whatever new way that September brings.

Over the next week or so, pupils will be invited to join their new teachers in a Zoom call. It will give the children a chance to have a chat with their new teacher and find out a little more about what school life will be like come September.

Have a lovely weekend everyone,

Mrs Reynolds
Deputy Headteacher
Black Lives Matter.
We are continuing to think about, support and develop the Black Lives Matter movement, and all of the associated issues and challenges, and this week, I’d like to share some resources with you. Staff have been working with the children, and I know that they have found the sessions incredibly useful and worthwhile. We joined forces with our Local Schools this week to form a steering group to share good practice, ideas and impetus. More to follow.

Stories and Authors Library: Firstly, I’d like to share this Virtual Library, full of free books to share with your children. From Black Lives Matter to Black Heroes to books by prominent black authors. CLICK here to access library

BLM - Parents’ Guide
This excellent guide is full of information to help you have meaningful and progressive conversations with your children, as well as to reflect on your own knowledge and experience. It has context, history, book suggestions and a host of web links for further reading. A most recommended resource. Click HERE to open a copy
