Eric is a woodcutter. He lives in a village in a forest - light twinkling through trees, birds twittering. Leaves rustling. Eric kind man, looks after his dad. Tall, handsome, dark hair, deep brown eyes.

Villagers begin to hear noises at night. Some trees have been burned down. Villagers worried. Describe feelings, e.g. the hair stood up on the back of Eric's neck and a cold bead of sweat trickled down his back.

At night- Eric is sleeping. Suddenly hears shouting. Rushes outside and see's a dragon swooping off.

King is inconsolable, his daughter Princess Hermione has been taken. A reward is given of her hand in marriage for anyone who rescues her.

Eric takes his father's sword and climbs the steep narrow path up to the dragon's lair feels frightened but boldly battles on. Cuts through prickly bushes etc to get up there.

Fights the dragon and rescues the princess.

King is so happy to see his daughter again- he lets Eric marry Hermione. Big party celebrations.
